

Courtney Bycraft has just graduated from WCCCD with her Associates of General Studies and will be attending the University of Michigan to achieve a double bachelor's in English and Communications with a minor in Foreign Languages/Linguistics. She tutored in the English department at Schoolcraft Community College in 2011 under the head of their English Department at the time. In the course of her college career thus far, she has taken and excelled at the top of her class in 6 different English and literature courses. Courtney has written 1 book that is in the middle of being edited and is in the process of writing two others. She teaches piano and clarinet in her free time and enjoys her job working at a golf course on the weekends.