

Ann Marie Jarvis is a Christian homeschool mother of two boys and has been married to her husband, John, for 20 years. She has a sincere desire and a calling to help and encourage young musicians in growing and using their God-given musical gifts for the purposes they have been given. Ann Marie graduated from Madonna University in 1996 with a B.A. in Vocal Music Performance, Church Music, and Music Management. She holds a Certificate of Achievement in Piano Pedagogy. Prior to starting her own family, she was an elementary and junior high school music teacher for four years where she directed several choirs and musical productions. She has also worked as a summer Vocal Camp Director at the Marquis Theatre in downtown Northville and as a theater director in Farmington community programs. In recent years, Ann Marie has taught several elementary through high school classes in area co-ops and homeschool groups in both music and theater. She currently teaches private vocal and piano lessons for students of all ages and has been doing so for over 20 years.
