

Joe is a COVE graduate who is pursuing a degree in music and ministry. He has been a private guitar instructor for over the past five years teaching numerous students each week. He is also an artist/songwriter and a worship leader at his local church. Realizing that each and every student is different, Joe tries to tailor fit his approach for the individual needs of his students. He feels that the guitar is a very beautiful and versatile instrument that can be used in many instances: around a campfire, worshipping in church, enjoying at home, ministering at nursing homes, etc...the possibilities are truly endless. But, his ultimate goal for his students is to instill a deep passion for music that lasts a lifetime.
