

Pam Comstock graduated from Western Washington University with her BA in Elementary Education. She has been an educator for over 30 years, teaching in both public and private classrooms before teaching her own five children at home from preschool through graduation (currently three have graduated, two are still at home). She has also maintained a private tutoring business for many years. Passionate about books, literature, and writing, one of her goals is to apply "how students learn" concepts to the classroom so that her students show demonstrable learning, and so she continues to grow as a teacher. She is happily married to Brett and lives in Canton.
