Description
In this class, middle grades students will explore world history from the fall of Rome, through the Age of Exploration, and up to the time of the American Revolution through both historical fiction and the literature of those times and places. Titles will be chosen based on students' and parents' needs, but will be appropriate for middle schoolers. I plan to include something.....set in Byzantium, King Arthur legends, Viking tales, Canturbury Tales, Adam of the Road (?), The Door in the Wall (?), Robin Hood tales, I, Juan de Pareja (?), Walk the World's Rim (?), something from or about Shakespeare, The Matchlock Gun (?), and Johnny Tremain. As you can see, my booklist is far from decided, but we will read about 15 books over the course of the year. All reading will be done at home. In class, we'll discuss, do some small projects related to the time of the book, and learn more about the history of that period. This class is not primarily for a grade, but I will be in touch with parents regarding the grade you may wish to assign based on the amount and quality of your student's work. The course does not provide a full year of either literature or history, but could be about half of either subject in your homeschool curriculum. This class is the second in a planned series of four years from ancient times to the 20th century.
Homework / Expectations / Other Info
Students should have the ability and time to read about 1/2 of a grade-level appropriate novel each week. In addition to the reading, some vocabulary and comprehension work (worksheets, quizzes on the reading) will be done at home.
