Description
This course is designed to introduce students to the cultural, economic, political and social developments in European history that have fundamental role in shaping the world in which they live. Within this scope they will trace the rise of democratic ideas and develop an understanding of the historical roots of current world issues. Students in this course are expected to demonstrate knowledge of basic chronology and major events from the High Renaissance of approximately 1450 to the present. The broad themes of intellectual-cultural, political-diplomatic, and social form the basis of the course within that chronology.
