Description
From the OYAN website: The One Year Adventure Novel class.. guides students (grades 8-12) through the process of writing a structured, compelling adventure novel over the course of one school year. The program's unique approach to writing begins where many writing course don't go at all, with an exploration of Story.What makes a story interesting? Why do we like some characters and despise others? What elements of a great book pull us into its world and compel us to keep turning pages? 78 lessons guide beginning authors step-by-step through a process that ends with the creation of an original, fully structured adventure novel. The One-Year Adventure Novel Curriculum is taught on DVD by award-winning novelist Daniel Schwabauer. It includes an in-depth textbook, a student workbook, and a teacher's guide as listed below. Click here to see the website: http://www.oneyearnovel.com/about.html. this class alone will give you one full credit for Creative Writing. A lot of literary analysis in this class is learned through writing your own book, putting in your own foreshadowing, planning your own characters' conflicts, using diction and tone that communicate meaning. A complete finished novel is a great accomplishment to put on your college applications!
Homework / Expectations / Other Info
Grades will be determined on a point system basis, including workbook exercises, quizzes, and writing the 12 chapters. For homework, students should expect 5-7 hours of homework per week. For the 2013/2014 class, the Thursday class meeting will extend through the lunch hour--we can eat together during class.
